

Lincoln County Library offers free computer use to the public. This includes access to informational and recreational resources on the internet. The libraries do not monitor or control the content of material available through the internet but expect appropriate use in a public and open environment. Parents or guardians of children 17 and under are responsible for their children's use of the internet.

Internet Computer Use Procedures

- Parental consent forms must be signed before patrons 17 and under use the internet.
- All county residents must register for a library card before using the computer. Community visitors will be issued a guest pass on a daily basis.
- Library staff is available to get users started but our time to help with the internet is limited.
- In fairness to all patrons, there is a time limit of one-hour per day of the computer use per person. Computers are available on a first come, first serve basis.
- No more than two people should be at a computer at a time.
- If you experience hardware or software problems while you are using the computer, please ask a staff member for help. Do not attempt to resolve the problem yourself.
- All computers will shut down 15 minutes before the library closes to allow for last minute printing.
- Lincoln County Library reserves the right to suspend computer privileges if computers are not used responsibly.
- Periodic downtimes may be necessary for maintenance, technical difficulties or staff use.
- The library reserves the right to modify and change this policy, the guidelines and conditions of use and procedures at any time.

I agree to follow the above rules. I agree that I am liable for any damage or loss to hardware or software caused by my unintentional or deliberate misuse of the equipment and programs. Failure to comply with this policy will result in permanent loss of computer privileges at the Lincoln County Public Libraries.
